Cook-Out Given for Hospitalized Boys and Girls

A Western-style cook-out was given last week for children patients of Harbor General Hospital, members of Volunteers for Children, the hostesses. Those who could be taken out on the lawn were moved out in wheel chairs, beds, high chairs and strollers.

A Torrance stable provided two horses for atmosphere, a Shetland pony and its two-month-old colt. Entertainment was provided by a trick horse and pony. The Candy Strippers provided music and a skit.

Many of the older adult patients who are usually confined, were wheeled down to the Bar B Ranch for the entertainment. At chow time, stew which had been cooking in large black kettles over a fire, was served in tin cans. There was also hard bread, pudding, cookies and milk.

Each child was given a hat or sun bonnet, a red bandana kerchief, or an apron and a toy. The afternoon party activity was enjoyed and the children were later returned for naps in the ward decorated with mountains, cactus, horses and cattle, made by the children under the supervision of their occupational therapy teacher.
